

Q: Will the content be the same for both the synchronous and asynchronous models?

A: Yes and No: Some videos will lend themselves to both models. Music and Chapel class for instance can be live with either the synchronous or asynchronous models but a video will be sent home with both models. Our lessons will mostly be structured around the book of the week. Our weekly Storytime video could easily be used for both models. In the Synchronous model there may be some differentiation depending on assessments and the like.

The main difference between the 2 models is the face to face time and interaction of the synchronous model. Creating classroom families and routines is imperative to the social emotional well being of our students.
